5 Good Country Tricks for Saving More Used Fats

Right now, the country is facing the worst fat shortage since the war began. To help make up the deficit, the government is depending on the women of America—and particularly our women on farms and in smaller cities.

Every drop of fat is needed to help make battlefield and homefront essentials. So roll up your sleeves and do an all-out job, won't you? Clip this checklist as a reminder.

- 1. FRIED SALT PORK—with milk gravy. Salt pork yields so much grease, you won't need it all for gravy. Pour the rest into the salvage can.
- 2. DEEP FAT FRYING—use the fat over and over, but when it's too dark and smelly to use any more, don't forget Uncle Sam uses it!
- 3. ROASTS AND CHOPS—save all trimmings (scraps from the plates, too). Keep them in a small bowl, once a week melt them down.
- 4. SAUSAGES—they're better if you parboil them first. Skim the fat off the cooking water—scrape the fat from the frying pan.
- 5. CHICKEN SOUP—chill it before you use it. Scoop off the hardened grease (soup tastes better, too!).

When the salvage can is full, take it to your butcher promptly. He will give you 2 red points and up to 4¢ for every pound of used fat you turn in.

100,000,000 More Pounds of Used Fats Are Needed This Year

Approved by WFA and OPA. Paid for by industry.

REPRESENTATIVE GEORGE ANDREWS

The Third Congressional District over the last half century has had but three different Representatives in the Congress of the United States, including the present incumbent who entered upon his duties something over a year ago. For forty-seven years, this District was successively represented by two unusually able men, the late Henry D. Clayton and the late Henry B. Steagall. And these deceased public servants set a difficult pattern for those who might come after them. They established a high standard of service that challenged the best potential congressional material of the District. It is now that we have the opportunity of looking over a successor and assaying his relative fitness for this high position.

George W. Andrews, of Union Springs, has made an excellent start as our congressman. Very well equipped for the career of a Representative, he manifests a keen interest in his constituents that is admirable. And his energy is most engaging.

Representative Andrews is well aware of the disposition of his District as indicated by history. He knows that good, constructive work is appreciated and affirmed—as it was done many, many times in the cases of Messrs. Clayton and Steagall. The people of the Third District are beginning to think of George Andrews as an up-and-coming statesman. They are noticing his seriousness in the assumption of his duties. And they are particularly like his policy of keeping close to his constituency. This is indicated by his practice of opening an office in each county of the District whenever the exigencies permit. In this way, he is available to the people for consultation, for petition and if the occasion arises—for remonstrance.

There is an old democratic custom that is often recited, especially by those most nearly concerned. It is that a competent or even a proving public servant be accorded a second term in office in order that he might be better able to demonstrate his fitness. Well, we would call this custom into play now, especially in the case of Representative Andrews. He certainly deserves another full term if he serves a man in office to deserve a second term. And he deserves it without a fight.

The Third District long ago found that to gain influence in the Congress, a good and promising man must be chosen for Representative and kept at his post until he can have the opportunity of assuming his position among the law-makers. Service seasons a Representative, affords him the chance to make invaluable contacts in the Nation's Capitol, and gives him experience that is absolutely necessary to good and effective government.—Opelika Daily News.

SGT. J. F. HUTCHISON HOME FROM OVERSEAS

Camp Blanding, Fla.—Sgt. James P. Hutchison, of New Brockton, Ala., has reported to the "Green Project," an Air Lift Distribution Center at Camp Blanding, according to announcement by Major M. S. Edstein, commanding officer of the center.

Sgt. Hutchison was in a recent shipment of men who were returned to the United States from the European Theater of Operations, via Miami, by planes of the Air Transport Command.

Returns passing through the "Green Project" are sorted for transfer to a reception center of their own choosing. This choice is made by the men while they are still overseas, and is usually based upon the place where they wish to spend their return furlough.

Sgt. Hutchison, whose address is 1700 Park St., N. St. Petersburg, Fla., has spent several months overseas, and is now looking forward to an enjoyable visit with his many friends and relatives.

JACOB ADJUSTS PERSONAL RELATIONSHIPS

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 28:1-11, 17-28.
GOLDEN TEXT—Let us therefore follow after the things which make for peace.—Romans 14:19.

Eventually a man's past catches up with him and he must face his own record. The Bible says, "Be sure your sin will find you out" (Num. 32:23). And it always does. Jacob, who had tricked and deceived his brother and had fled into a far country, ultimately had to return to his homeland and face Esau.

The story of what Jacob must face in our dramatic and instructive lesson.

Before Jacob could be permitted to enter the Promised Land of his father, he had to meet God. He needed a thoroughgoing transformation of life and attitude, and he received it as he wrestled with God at Peniel (Gen. 32).

Ultimately the stubborn man had to yield, and then he found that it was God who had come to give him a great blessing. How often do we fight against the goodness and mercy of God. Yielding brings blessing; Jacob "the supplanter" became Israel "wrestle with God." He was now ready (Gen. 32).

1. Reconciliation (vv. 1-7). After living for 20 years in horror of meeting Esau, Jacob now met him with an army. He resorted to clever strategy, but this time it was done not in sly crookedness, but in open friendly effort to win his brother's good will.

There is nothing wrong about this. A tactful approach, and it really worked for Jacob. His courtesy was shown by his seven bows. His bravery appeared in going out to meet Esau. His attitude showed in his rich gift to his brother.

2. Reconciliation (vv. 8-11). The gift which Jacob had prepared for Esau was a traditional offering, and yet it bore also the nature of a restoration of something of the things which were behind (Phil. 3:1). Esau in defrauding him of his birthright.

There is a place for proper restitution in every case where we have wronged another by taking his possessions or destroying his opportunities to prosper. Becoming a Christian is a forgetting of those things which are behind (Phil. 3:1) in a spiritual sense, but not in the ignoring of our obligations to others. What we can make right we must make right if we want God's blessing.

Esau was generous and did not want the gift, but since it would have been an affront to his brother to refuse, he accepted it. There are properties in life and little courtesies to be observed. Failure at this point has created much friction even between believers. Being a Christian should make one gentlemanly and ladylike. Let's remember that.

Then, too, Jacob was wise in putting Esau under the friendly obligation which is inherent in the acceptance of a gift. Those who are stingy and close-fisted about giving to others often find that their lack of generosity has reflected in their lack of friends.

The time has come for the brother to part, and we find Jacob flung into his old trickery as he prepares to go.

III. Return (vv. 17-20). The portion between verses 11 and 17 indicates that instead of going on in straightforward dealings with Esau, Jacob resorts to evasion in order to be free to go where he would in his return to his fatherland. Instead of going back to Bethel, the place of blessing (Gen. 28), to which Jacob had been called (Gen. 28:11-13), he went to Succoth, the place of tents, and he lived there for some time.

Ultimately, God did get him back to Bethel (Gen. 35), but only after much sorrow and suffering. Jacob was called to live the life of a shepherd out in the fields with God, and when he pitched his tent near Shechem he compromised and lost out.

The incident pictures the tragic result of such flinching in our day. Those who will not move over into the world life want to be close enough to it so that their children may have the cultural and educational advantages, and soon they find that they have lost their children to the world and have lost the savor of their own spiritual experience.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS Atomic-Bomb and Russ Attack Signal Japan's Acceptance of Unconditional Surrender Terms

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Following in lightning succession, the U. S. use of atomic bombs and Russia's entrance into the conflict signalled the end to the Pacific war, which had been waged with such bitterness since December of 1941.

With the second of its great industrial cities leveled by the terrific new explosive, and with Russian troops driving deep into Manchuria and Korea, the Japanese gave the first indication of their decision to throw in the sponge early on August 10 with the Tokyo radio's announcement of acceptance of unconditional surrender terms provided the emperor's position was respected.

Later, the Swedish foreign office revealed that the Japanese had asked it to transmit their request for cessation of hostilities to the Allied powers.

Under terms of the unconditional surrender demand by the U. S., Britain and China at Potsdam, and later subscribed to by Russia, the Japanese were required to:

1. Eliminate the influence of those who have directed Japan's conquest;
2. Submit to occupation of designated points in the home islands until world peace is assured;
3. Limit Japan's sovereignty to the home islands of Honshu, Hokkaido, Kyushu and Shikoku;
4. Give up all foreign conquests;
5. Disarm all forces;
6. Remove all obstacles to freedom of speech, religion and thought.

In return, the Potsdam terms promised Japan retention of all industries to maintain the civilian economy and provide for reparations in goods; access to raw materials and free trade; and withdrawal of occupation forces upon organization of a peace-minded government in conformance with the wishes of the people.

In first indicating the Japanese decision to give up the fight, the Tokyo radio declared that the Japanese had approached Russia to act as intermediary in peace negotiations with the U. S., Britain and China several weeks ago at the request of the emperor. Having failed to establish contacts, however, the government terrior of these burned out by the fires following the explosion. So terrible was the blast, it rocked the 2-29 from which the charge was dropped, while it crashed 10 miles distant.

Goal of scientists for over 40 years, and the result of combined U. S. and British research since 1940, the atomic bomb has been secretly produced in two great plants at Richland, Wash., and Oak Ridge, Tenn., with two billion dollars required for its development.

With Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves in overall charge, and with Dr. J. R. Oppenheimer of the University of California heading the technical work, manufacture of the atomic bomb involved the use of uranium, a metallic substance found in southwestern Colorado and eastern Utah as well as in Canada, the Belgian Congo, Austria, Russia, Sweden, Norway and Cornwall.

Principle of the new explosive lies in splitting atoms—the tiniest particles of matter—and releasing the electrical charges they contain with the attendant energy. Besides energy, heat and light can be recovered, thus leading to wide post-war possibilities for the material.

In announcing the use of the atomic bomb with its magical silence, however, Secretary of War Stimson revealed that postwar adaptation of the product to civilian use will require additional experimentation to design machinery capable of harnessing the tremendous force.

Meanwhile, Stimson said, the U. S. intends to share the secret of the atomic bomb only with Britain and Canada, and in speculating on its use as a factor in maintaining peace, it was suggested that the English-speaking Allies would hold on to the explosive and restrict its use on behalf of the United Nations postwar security force to American and British planes.

Regretting that the atomic bomb's inventory did not destroy the warring nations, Stimson declared that it "made a deep impression thereby, not so much for the use already made of the death instrument, as for the shadow it cast on the future of humanity." Because people never can learn the lessons of the atomic bomb, Stimson declared that the atomic bomb will also remain a temptation for unscrupulous statesmen.

Foreign Farm Help Jumps in U. S.

Though the number of hired people doing farm work in the United States in midsummer this year reached a new wartime low, the department of agriculture reports that the number of foreign workers and war prisoners working on farms in the United States in midsummer was about 140,000.

The foreign workers come from Mexico, Jamaica, the Bahamas, and Newfoundland. Of the 56,000 Mexicans, most were in the West, but around 8,000 were on farms in the Midwest.

The number of Jamaicans came to around 16,000, and there were about 4,000 Bahamians. While the Jamaicans are working through the whole country, the Bahamians are in Florida and other truck-growing areas along the Atlantic seaboard.

EUROPE: New Developments

With America now committed to keeping the peace in Europe, political developments on the stricken continent commanded the nation's attention more closely.

Foremost recent developments included the U. S. and Britain's decision to grant occupied Germany a measure of local independence; the Allies' move to separate Austria from the Reich, and plans for the determination of a new government in Yugoslavia.

Declarations that it was up to the Germans themselves to reestablish their country in the eyes of the world, General Eisenhower announced that local trade unions and political parties would be permitted to function wherever the Allied military government ordained. Warning that the winter ahead would be hard, Eisenhower urged the Germans to repair damaged properties now, gather cordwood for fuel since coal will not be available, and go into the fields to harvest a good crop.

In determining to separate Austria from the Reich, the Allies planned for the creation of an independent state in the Danube region, before which the country would be divided into four occupational zones under U. S., Russian and French military command. The U. S. zone constitutes the north-central portion of Austria below the Danube.

Meanwhile, Yugoslavia prepared to hold a vote on the question of the form of a new government, with Moscow-backed Marshal Tito battling for a republic and the royalists for the monarchy. Charged with having been identified with Nazi collaborators by the Yugoslav government, Peter Petrovich, a member of the Yugoslav Parliament, with all low social status and no opportunity for a free and open vote in the future character of the government.

Within a day America lost an outstanding soldier and an equally notable aviator when Capt. William J. "Dick" Bong of Poplar, Wis., died when his jet-propelled "Shooting Star" exploded, only to be caught in the air.

JUDGE BOOZER BEING RACED FOR GOVERNOR

If Judge Elbert S. Boozer, private judge of Calhoun County, succeeds to the judgeship of many thousands of citizens throughout the state who have been urging him to make the race for governor in 1946, voters of Alabama will have a chance to elect a strictly farmer-businessman for the first time in many years.

At fifty years of age Judge Boozer is holding his first political job and can look back on several years of highly successful effort as private judge of Calhoun County.

Judge Boozer is a native Alabamian. He was born on a farm near Hoke's Bluff in Elbowah County and early in life started working in the interest of the farmers of the first tractor; when they were a rarity on Alabama farms, pioneered the building of power lines for light and power for farm homes, advocates and builds sweet potato houses and cures tobacco. During recent years he has interested himself in the raising of beef and dairy cattle.

Judge Boozer has three theories in politics. He wants to substantially increase old-age benefits, assist returning war veterans and aid education in Alabama. He is a steward and trustee of the people. Methodist Church, a Mason, Shriner and a charter member of the Anniston Elks Club.

Electric Service Still Good; Price Down!

COMPARE the price of anything you buy today with what you paid 15 years ago. Make the same comparison of the price you pay for electric service for your home.
You'll find it to be one of the few things that is not only no higher in price, but is lower! On the average, you can now use in your home about twice as much electricity as you could 15 years ago for the same amount of money.
And your service became more dependable, even under war conditions.

COACH HAWSE CALLS
FOOTBALL PRACTICE

Coach Hawse of Elba
High School asks The Clipper to announce that football practice will start Monday, Sept. 3. He asks all boys who are interested in football to appear at the athletic field Monday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock.

As the school had no football last year on account of war conditions, the Elba Coach realizes that he has a man-sized job confronting him, but he is a hard worker and an expert handler of boys, and he is determined to give Elba the best football team possible with the available material.

The student body and lovers of football should give Coach Hawse their full cooperation.
